

California State University, Long Beach – College of Health and Human Services
School of Criminology, Criminal Justice, and Emergency Management

Position: Part-time Lecturer positions for writing instruction
Effective Date: Fall 2023 (August 17, 2023 - December 22, 2023); Spring 2024 (January 22, 2024 - May 24, 2024)
Salary Range: Commensurate with qualifications and experience

Minimum Qualifications:

1. Master's degree in Rhetoric, English, or a closely related discipline OR J.D. degree with experience teaching legal research and writing at an ABA-accredited law school or paralegal studies program.
2. Evidence of communicating and working effectively with an ethnically and culturally diverse campus community.

Preferred Qualifications:

1. An earned doctorate in rhetoric, composition, English, or a closely related discipline.
2. At least one year of experience teaching writing at the undergraduate level (or higher).
3. Undergraduate degree in criminal justice, criminology, psychology, sociology, political science, or a related social scientific discipline will be given preference.
4. Knowledge of APA citation.
5. Some experience working in a justice-related profession.

Duties:

1. Teach CRJU 300: Research, Writing, and Reasoning for Criminology and Criminal Justice. The course is designed to help students develop the skills needed to conduct and properly cite library and electronic research from social scientific and legal sources, and then use these sources to write papers, case briefs, and reports commonly used in the justice professions.
2. Additional duties as determined or assigned by the School Director.
