MESSAGE FROM PRESIDENT CONOLEY

Dear Friends,

Congratulations, on behalf of the Cal State Long Beach community, to our 2025 Alumni Awards recipients!

The Distinguished Alumni Award is the highest accolade bestowed on alumni by CSULB. Only those who have made outstanding contributions to their fields of endeavor and provided exemplary leadership and service to their professions and communities, as well as to their alma mater and to society-at-large, are chosen for this special honor.

We are proud of our remarkable awardees — and of our entire alumni family. This group, now more than 400,000 graduates strong, is a powerful force for good, and its members continue to enhance the quality of life enjoyed throughout and beyond California. The influence and accomplishments of our alumni reflect CSULB's position as a major public university and societal asset.

Congratulations, once again, to this year's awardees, and thanks to everyone who helped make tonight's celebration of Beach excellence possible.

Go Beach!

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Jane Close Conoley". The signature is fluid and cursive, with the first letters of each name being capitalized and prominent.

JANE CLOSE CONOLEY, PH.D.
PRESIDENT
CALIFORNIA STATE UNIVERSITY, LONG BEACH

DISTINGUISHED ALUMNI

Nominations were accepted from the community at large and reviewed by the CSULB Alumni Awards selection committee. These honorees have a record of distinction and accomplishment in their field and a proven record of exemplary leadership and service to their community, profession and our alma mater.

2025 DISTINGUISHED ALUMNA

MONICA SCHMIDT-MITCHELL, '95

EXECUTIVE PRODUCER, RICK AND MORTY

1995, B.A., RADIO, TV & FILM, CSULB

Monica Schmidt-Mitchell had never considered producing as a viable career before taking a Production Management class with the late Steve Hubbert during her junior year at CSULB. Today, some 30 years later, she oversees all aspects of production and company operations as head producer for the acclaimed “Rick and Morty” franchise, which has been translated into more than 150 languages worldwide. Along the way, she has amassed producing credits for such award-winning and-nominated shows as “South Park,” “Bojack Horseman,” and “StoryBots” and she was part of the team that won an Emmy® for “Mickey Mouse Shorts.” She is especially proud of helping launch the groundbreaking Peabody and Emmy® Award-winning animated series “South Park” during its first season, an experience that sparked her passion for producing animation, took her to such top animation studios as Disney and Warner Bros. and enabled her to collaborate with some of the most talented people in the industry. In addition to her production work, Schmidt-Mitchell is currently an adjunct professor at the John C. Hench Division of Animation + Digital Arts at the USC School of Cinematic Arts and she sits on the advisory board of the Department of Cinematic Arts at The Beach. “I frequently run into successful CSULB alumni across the industry,” she says, “and it always makes me proud to be part of this incredible community.”

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS
2025 DISTINGUISHED ALUMNUS

DR. FELTON C. WILLIAMS, '72, MBA '75

BOARD PRESIDENT (RET.), LONG BEACH UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT

1970, A.A., SECRETARIAL SCIENCE, LOS ANGELES HARBOR COLLEGE

1972, B.A., BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION, CSULB

1975, MBA, BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION, CSULB

1985, PH.D., HIGHER EDUCATION, CLAREMONT GRADUATE UNIVERSITY

With a name that “is known and revered in Southern California education circles,” as Rich Archbold wrote in the Press-Telegram, Felton Williams has been a force for positive change in greater Long Beach for nearly half a century. In 2024, Williams’ deep and abiding interest in what he has called “development and execution of the human potential” was recognized with a United States President’s Lifetime Achievement Award, the highest honor of its kind, signed by President Joseph R. Biden. Williams’ journey began when he defied prevailing expectations to earn an associate’s degree from Los Angeles Harbor College (LAHC) in 1970. He went on to earn both a bachelor’s degree and an MBA from CSULB and later, a Ph.D. in higher education from Claremont Graduate University (CGU), all of which positioned him for a career focused on achieving educational excellence and equity and culminating in deanships at Sacramento City College and Long Beach City College. As a former president and longtime member of the Long Beach Unified School District’s Board of Education, he was successful in opening doors for African American and other students of color to access district programs and he has contributed his time and resources to a variety of other organizations, including Leadership Long Beach and the Long Beach Branch of the NAACP. Williams’ contributions have not only been recognized by President Biden but also with a Green-Garner Award, the nation’s highest urban education honor, and with Outstanding Alumnus awards from both LAHC and CGU. Although officially retired, Williams told Archbold last year, “I’m never going to stop to make things better.”

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION
2025 DISTINGUISHED ALUMNA

DR. ADRIENE L. DAVIS, '01, ED.D. '13

FOUNDER/CEO & PRESIDENT, INTERMEDIARY DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION

2001, B.S., MARKETING, CSULB

2006, MBA, BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION, UNIVERSITY OF PHOENIX

2007, CREDENTIAL, NANOTECHNOLOGY, LOYOLA MARYMOUNT UNIVERSITY

2013, ED.D., HIGHER EDUCATION LEADERSHIP, CSULB

A two-time Beach graduate with a B.S. degree in business administration and an Ed.D. in higher education organizational leadership, Dr. Adriene “Alex” Davis says CSULB is more than a university to her - “It’s a place where my potential was nurtured, my dreams were cultivated.” She went on to leverage her skills, knowledge and experience to influence policies, create opportunities and advocate for underserved populations throughout the region, state and country. Her proudest accomplishments include leading large-scale workforce development initiatives in which she secured and managed over $130 million in funding to support job training, education and career pathways for underserved communities; directing the programmatic operations of a regional consortium of 29 community colleges across 15 districts, representing over 200,000 students and being appointed by Gov. Gavin Newsom to the California Community on Aging, where she plays a key role in shaping state policies and workforce strategies for aging populations. Davis currently serves as program director for the Southern California Apprenticeship Network and as the CEO of Intermediary Development Corp., the organization she founded to ensure sustainable economic development and equitable access to high-quality careers. She has maintained a strong connection to CSULB, where she is a scholarship donor, mentor and guest lecturer, sharing her insights and expertise with the next generation of higher education leaders and workforce strategists.

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING
2025 DISTINGUISHED ALUMNUS

MICHAEL FITZPATRICK, '92

INFORMATION SECURITY SENIOR ARCHITECT, EDWARDS LIFESCIENCES
1992, B.S., COMPUTER ENGINEERING, CSULB

Long Beach native Michael Fitzpatrick came to CSULB as a President's Scholar and computer engineering major during a period of unprecedented growth in internet usage — the ideal launch pad for a 30-plus-year career in information technology and cybersecurity. After receiving his bachelor's degree, Fitzpatrick went on to earn numerous industry certifications, including those from the Information Systems Audit and Control Association and The Open Group (Architecture Framework) and was instrumental in helping companies such as SchoolsFirst Federal Credit Union, Hyundai, Experian and TRW protect and secure financial services, credit reports, and corporate intellectual property. Fitzpatrick is currently a senior information security architect and lead member of the Information Security Governance Risk and Compliance team at Edwards Lifesciences, an Irvine-based company that develops technologies to treat heart disease and critical illness. Looking back, his two-plus years as the lead UNIX administrator for Jet Propulsion Laboratory's Mars Global Surveyor stand out as a career highlight. "I was able to assist the team in building out the technology services required by the science team to design, build, and eventually launch the mission," he says. The job ultimately took him to Cape Canaveral, Florida, where he spent the final six weeks of the project providing support in the lead-up to the launch. Fitzpatrick is part of a Beach family that includes his father, two uncles, a cousin and a niece. He looks forward to seeing his daughter graduate this spring.

COLLEGE OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES
2025 DISTINGUISHED ALUMNUS

JOHN R. OHANESIAN, MPA '80

PRESIDENT/CEO, LEAR CAPITAL

1977, B.A., POLITICAL SCIENCE, CSU SONOMA

1980, MPA, PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION, CSULB

For more than three decades, John Ohanesian has successfully launched and grown multiple businesses in the aesthetic, wellness and biotech sectors. An Ernst & Young Entrepreneur of the Year Award finalist, Ohanesian is known for creating innovative products and services that meet the needs of consumers, as well as developing effective marketing and sales strategies. Currently, Ohanesian is president and CEO of Lear Capital, overseeing the strategic direction and day-to-day operations of a company that, since 1997, has been a leading provider of premium coin acquisitions for individual investors, with over $3 billion in transactions. He also provides counsel and guidance for marketing, sales, distribution and overall growth as advisor and chief strategic officer for Theradome, Inc., an aesthetic medical device company. His previous key roles include president and CEO of Bosley, president and CEO of Aderans Research Institute, and senior vice president of medical services for the 2015 Special Olympics World Games in Los Angeles. Ohanesian has contributed his time and resources to numerous nonprofit organizations, including The Sheri and Les Biller Family Foundation, The Archer School for Girls, The Beckman Research Institute of City of Hope and The Center Theatre Group. In 2004, the Concern Foundation honored Ohanesian for his philanthropic and humanitarian efforts in the greater Los Angeles area.

COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS
2025 DISTINGUISHED ALUMNUS

MICHAEL A. ANASTASI, '01

SENIOR VICE PRESIDENT OF LOCAL NEWS, GANNETT AND THE USA TODAY NETWORK

2001, B.A., PRINT JOURNALISM, CSULB

2020, M.A., LEADERSHIP AND PUBLIC SERVICE, LIPSCOMB UNIVERSITY

A first-generation college student who was born in Kitzbuhel, Austria, and raised in the small Northern California town of Knights Landing (pop. 987), Michael Anastasi came to CSULB as a journalism major — rising to editor-in-chief of the Daily 49er (now the Long Beach Current) during his senior year — and has been an enthusiastic champion of his alma mater ever since. Although his academic and professional pursuits eventually brought him to Tennessee, where he is currently the senior vice president of local news for Gannett and the USA TODAY Network, the nation’s largest news organization, Anastasi has remained an active part of Beach life over the years. In addition to serving as a member of CSULB’s Journalism Advisory Board since 2008, Anastasi assisted the Department of Journalism & Public Relations during its accreditation process; coached, hired and taught journalism students; and funded, with his wife, Julie, an endowed scholarship that will support returning journalism students at CSULB in perpetuity. A nationally recognized supporter of diversity who founded the APSE (Association of People Supporting Employment First) Diversity Fellowship Program, Anastasi says he is immensely proud of being a Pulitzer Prize-winning editor, but prouder still to have been named in 2021 as co-laureate of the Robert F. Kennedy Human Rights Journalism Award, which annually recognizes the best human rights and social justice journalism in the world. Anastasi’s proudest personal accomplishment is raising, with Julie, two daughters who are university graduates. The couple looks forward to celebrating their 30th wedding anniversary later this year.

COLLEGE OF NATURAL SCIENCES AND MATHEMATICS
2025 DISTINGUISHED ALUMNUS

DR. GREGORY LOWELL WHITAKER, '90

CONSULTANT ANESTHESIOLOGIST, GREATER ANESTHESIA SOLUTIONS

1990, B.S., BIOCHEMISTRY, CSULB

1996, DPM, DOCTOR OF PODIATRIC MEDICINE,
SCHOLL COLLEGE OF PODIATRIC MEDICINE

2001, DO, DOCTOR OF OSTEOPATHIC MEDICINE,
NOVA SOUTHEASTERN UNIVERSITY COLLEGE OF OSTEOPATHIC MEDICINE

2007, 2014, CERTIFICATE, BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION,
AMERICAN SOCIETY OF ANESTHESIOLOGISTS

2017, M.S., HEALTH CARE ADMINISTRATION, GRAND CANYON UNIVERSITY

2017, FASA, FELLOW OF THE AMERICAN SOCIETY OF ANESTHESIOLOGISTS

A first-generation college graduate, Gregory Lowell Whitaker says his parents, Fredrick and Susan, stressed the importance of higher education and the values of perseverance and resilience. The depth and breadth of his academic pursuits ultimately led to an extraordinary, globe-spanning career in medicine. After earning his bachelor's degree in biochemistry from CSULB — he was deeply involved with the University Scholar's Program Association during his four years — Whitaker went on to become a Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine and completed a post-graduate residency training in anesthesiology at The University of Tennessee Graduate School of Medicine,

Knoxville, where he was chief resident. He currently serves as a consultant anesthesiologist with Greater Anesthesia Solutions, Arizona's leading anesthesiology provider. Of all his professional accomplishments, Whitaker says he is proudest of his deployment to Iraq as a U.S. Army Medical Corps officer, where he served with various trauma resuscitation teams, and his time at Mount Sinai Medical Center in New York in spring 2020 during the COVID-19 pandemic. Whitaker is "eternally grateful" for his undergraduate experience, which, he says, "provided the foundation for all my subsequent medical education," and looks forward to continuing to "support all efforts to facilitate the growth and well-being of CSULB students."
